RITTENHOUSE
COMMUNICATIONS GROUP
PRESIDENT

Rittenhouse Communications Group is a premier building technology integrator delivering bespoke solutions for multi-family developers and hospitality projects. Operating under the tagline “safer, smarter and more connected,” RCG has partnered with high profile project partners over the past decade, redefining the industry standard through a systems thinking approach.

Solutions driven, Sean Edwards, President of RCG, is expanding the organization’s reach into the mobile app world with Rittenhouse IoT Solutions, a new arm of the business which launched PropKey by RCG this year. This newest venture was born out of the desire to close the circle on the end user experience, synthesizing parts and smarts while adding communicative abilities for residents and managers alike.

RCG has built out a substantially larger space to accommodate the growing team and the innovation center, a hands-on demo center featuring the robust roster of smart hardware and new devices. While many have reverted to doing daily tasks remotely, there is a tactile side to the industry that speaks to design and taste that you must experience in person. “Both form and function are important to us and we are constantly searching for products that bring unique capabilities to the table in tandem with well thought out design.”
